UNIVERSITY OF MARYLAND

2001 Men's Season Preview

Terps Look to returning juniors to lead the way

The 2001 edition of the men's golf team features a group of young talented players who will look to build on a solid fall season.

Head coach Tom Hanna enters his 10th season at the helm of the Terrapin golf program, hoping to guide Maryland to NCAA competition for the third straight season. While the team did not earn a bid to the NCAA Tournament in 2000, seniors Gary Mankulish and Keith Unikel qualified on an individual basis, as both rounded out their successful Maryland careers. The loss of Mankulish and Unikel – perhaps the best senior duo in Terps' history – figures to be an obstacle for the young Terrapin squad.

Looking to pick up the slack will be the team's new top duo – John Moheyer (Lima, Ohio) and Corey Brigham (Rumson, N.J.). Each has enjoyed success to this point at Maryland, and their success continued during the 2000 fall season. Moheyer had the team's top stroke average during the fall season (74.67), and he recorded four top-10 finishes in six tournaments. Brigham was number two on the team with a stroke average of 74.81, earning two top-10 finishes in six tournaments. During last year's spring season, Brigham was third on the team with a stroke average of 74.35.

Joining Moheyer and Brigham will be a pair of sophomores who were contributors last season, Dan MacDonald (Plandome, N.Y.) and Vertti Iso-Ahola (Upper Marlboro, Md.). Iso-Ahola posted the fourth-best stroke average on the team last year (76.33), and shot a one-under par 71 in the first round of Cleveland Golf/Augusta State Invitational. MacDonald competed at two tournaments during the spring season, recording a 77.67 stroke average. He finished 10th overall at the Rehoboth Beach Invitational.

John Moheyer

In addition, a couple of heralded freshmen will look to make an impact. Tim Kane (Simsbury, Conn.) and Jimmy Cunningham (Walkersville, Md.) were arguably the team's top golfers behind Moheyer and Brigham during the 2000 fall season. Kane posted a stroke average of 76.52 in five tournaments, while Cunningham recorded a stroke average of 78.00 in three tournaments. Both will be looking to build on the fall season and continue the type of play that made them star players at the high school level. Kane was a 2000 All-American selection by the American Junior Golf Association (AJGA), and Cunningham was Maryland state champion in 1998.

Corey Brigham

Other challenges for playing time are juniors Scott Ehrlich (Blue Bell, Pa.) and Phillip Fenstermaker (Rockville, Md.), as well as sophomore Brit Musser (North Potomac, Md.).

Ehrlich has seen sporadic action since transferring from American University two seasons ago. He posted a stroke average of 78.67 last spring and a 75.00 stroke average in limited action in fall 2000. Fenstermaker, a transfer from Cisco Junior College, has also contributed intermittently. He posted a stroke average of 76.40 in two tournaments last spring and 78.40 in two competitions during the fall season.

The Terps open the spring season at the Charlotte Intercollegiate in Greenville, N.C., on March 4. The team will then travel to the Furman Invitational where it placed third out of 18 teams last season. Next will be the Augusta State Intercollegiate, where the Terps took eighth in a field of 19 a year ago, followed by the ACC Championships. Maryland will look to improve on last year's eighth-place finish at the conference tournament. The schedule concludes with the Wofford Invitational, the site of the Terps' lone team title last spring, and the Virginia Invitational on April 26-27. The NCAA regionals will be held May 17-19.

Despite the loss of the team's two most accomplished, experienced players to graduation, Maryland has managed to retool the roster with young talent in an effort to stay competitive. With a nice blend of youth and experience, the Terps hope to be postseason participants once again this season.

Men's Coach Tom Hanna

10th season at Maryland • Maryland '71

Maryland men's head golf coach Tom Hanna has more than 25 years of experience in the golf business, both as a coach and as a competitor. Over the past deacde, Hanna has taken a little known, under-funded program and transformed it into a highly recognized contender which has some of the best up-and-coming talent in the ACC. This, along with the expertise that he brings to the program, will be the spark that get the Terps back along the path that will lead to success in both the ACC and nationally.

Originally from Lock Haven, Pa., Hanna is no stranger to success when it comes to golf. In his collegiate days with the Terps, Hanna competed in three consecutive NCAA Tournaments. Following his collegiate playing days, he then moved on to compete on the Professional Golf Association (PGA) Tour. After a brief stint in the PGA, Hanna continued to rack up state and local titles in the Philadelphia section of the PGA. After his time competing there, Hanna remained on the East Coast, gaining extensive experience as a head professional at several prestigious country clubs. He spent three years at Lock Haven Country Club in Lock Haven, Pa., before taking the head professional job at Centre Hills Country Club in State College, Pa., from 1977-84. From 1985-90, Hanna was the director of golf at the Harbour Towne Golf Course in St. Michaels, Md. In 1991, he returned to his alma mater to take over the reins of the Maryland men's golf program.

Since then, Hanna has steadily improved the golf program. In 1994, the Terps finished fifth at the ACC Championships, their highest finish since 1978. This resulted in Hanna earning ACC Coach of the Year honors.

In 2000, he guided the Terps to a second trip to the NCAA East Regional and consistent top 30 national rankings. Last season Keith Unikel and Gary Mankulish were individual participants in the NCAA Tournament.

Also, in 1991 Hanna was named the director of the Maryland golf course, a job in which he exerted just as much energy as with the golf team. Hanna helped transform the Maryland golf course into one of the nicest, cleanest, and most popular courses in the area that is used on an annual basis to host numerous local high school golf championships. He recently relinquished his course director duties, but remains heavily involved in ensuring that it remains one of the top courses in the area. Hanna also directs several summer golf camps at the University of Maryland.

Hanna graduated from the University of Maryland in 1971 and received his B.S. in physical education. Hanna and his wife, Kathy, have three children: Betsi, Thomas III, and Jessica.

2001 Women's Season Preview

Second-year program seeks to continue strong start in Division I

A new season and a nationally-ranked freshman class have generated high hopes and enthusiasm for the Maryland women's golf program. Coming off consecutive top-five finishes in the fall tournaments, the Terps are in perfect position heading into the traditional spring season.

With the combination of the returning players and a highly touted freshman class, the 2001 Maryland women's golf team is counting on a solid core of veterans for seasoned experience and a talented freshman class in hopes of continuing to improve upon the team's performance in year 2000.

Now in his second season as head coach, Jason Rodenhaver is pleased with the results from the Terps' inaugural season, but at the same time he is also looking to make improvements in hopes of taking his second-year program into the elite and further develop the play of his golfers. "I'm very excited to get started on our second spring season," Rodenhaver said. "Based on the fall results, our program is heading in the right direction. This can be attributed to our freshman class and the overall improvement of our returning players."

With a roster consisting of one senior, one junior, four sophomores and four freshmen, Rodenhaver hopes to receive enormous help from his returning players this spring, led by sophomore Erin Clasper. Clasper emerged as the Terps' No. 1 golfer last season as she led the team with the lowest strokes per round average, 81.91 over 11 rounds. She recorded the team low score of 72 in the Snowbird Intercollegiate and was the only player to shoot a par in a round last year. Clasper was also one of only two Terps to card a top-10 individual finish in the fall of 1999. In addition, she holds the record for being the only Terp to card a sub-par (71, -1) round.

Another trio of sophomores will also be looked upon to add depth and experience to the team. Carter Crowther, Jennifer Gibson and Holly Thornton all have performed well in the Terps' inaugural season, and all are ready to compete for tee time in the spring.

The freshman class of 2001 has been the biggest impact makers of the program yet. Ranked third in the nation by Golfstat.com, a NCAA recognized collegiate golf website, freshmen Kara Gropler, Katie Redeker, Stacey Wolejko and Marie Harper have all contributed mightily to the program since the moment they arrived on campus.

Gropler and Redeker, two of the most outstanding players during the fall 2000 season, performed well above Rodenhaver's expectations and will be among the Terps' top golfers during the spring. The pair led the Terps in every tournament in the fall, and as a result, the Terps finished in the top-15 in all tournaments in which they did not finish below fifth place in the final three tournaments. Redeker also became the first Maryland woman golfer to capture an individual tournament title. In the final tournament of the fall, the John Kirk/ Lady Panther Invitational, after an opening round of 79, then shooting a 74 in the second round, Redeker caught fire as she fired a career-low round of 72 (par), the best round by a Maryland golfer in the fall, to win the low medalist honor by one stroke.

Kara Gropler

Rodenhaver will also count on Sarah Bedford and Brooke Bendler to help the Terps this season.

Bedford, the lone senior on the team, will also serve as captain for the second straight year. She provides much-needed leadership to this relatively youthful group. She showed consistency during the inaugural season, as she was one of the five Terps who competed in all tournaments in the spring season. Bedford shot her career-best round of 80 (+8) in the first round of the JMU Invitational on April 8th. Bendler, a junior who transferred from Mississippi two years ago, will also be counted on to provide experience and maturity. Bendler saved her best outing for the last tournament of the 1999-00 season. She led the Terps at the ACC Championships with three scores in the 80's and a tied for 19th-place finish. Bendler shot a career-best 80 in the third round of the ACC Championships. It marked the 11th consecutive round that she had shot in the 80's in the spring.

Katie Redeker

"We definitely have our work cut out for us," said Rodenhaver. "The ACC is loaded with superpowers including Duke, the defending national champion. Although based on our fall results, we have improved almost 18 shots per round over last year's overall stroke average, I still want each of my players to improve themselves in every facet of their lives. We have set high standards for our players both on the golf course as well as in the classroom. With our continued hard work on the course, in the classroom, and in the weight room, I'm looking forward to another successful season."

The Terps will open their second spring season at Southern Mississippi on Feb 4th. The spring schedule includes four other tournaments, all on the road, which will put the Terps to the test.

Women's Coach Jason Rodenhaver

2nd season at Maryland • Maryland '94

Jason Rodenhaver was named the first coach of the Maryland women's golf program on Nov. 19, 1998. It was then that he began the enviable task of building a brand new program that launched during the fall of 1999. A professional golfer, Rodenhaver enthusiastically made the move to the coaching ranks and is creating a new era at the University of Maryland.

With his sights set firmly on developing a solid foundation for the program, Rodenhaver has been given the resources necessary to compete at the national level. His playing and coaching experiences coupled with his competitive spirit and drive to be successful can mean only one thing for the women's golf program at Maryland: eventual long-term success.

Rodenhaver was the assistant men's golf coach at Maryland and an assistant golf professional at the University of Maryland Golf Course when he was named to lead the newly created women's program. He assumed full-time responsibility for the women's team on Dec. 7, 1998.

"Clearly, Jason was the most qualified and the best fit for his role of our new head coach," said director of athletics Deborah A. Yow upon Rodenhaver's appointment. "Given his level of familiarity with the university and the local golf community, he will jump-start our women's golf program, with long range goal of becoming a top 20 team. Women's golf is our 13th sport for female student-athletes. Its addition is the capstone to our six-year gender equity plan."

On the course, he co-directed Maryland's summer camp for junior golfers the last three years, and was tournament director of the State Farm Collegiate Players Tour, held at the University of Maryland Golf Course, from 1994-1998. He also organized the UM golf team reunion tournament in 1998 which helped raise $15,000 for the program.

A 1994 graduate of the University of Maryland, Rodenhaver played three seasons for the Terps and led the team to a fifth-place finish at the Atlantic Coast Conference championship in 1994. The fifth-place finish was Maryland's highest in the conference championship since 1978. Rodenhaver was a two-year captain of the men's golf team at Maryland and a participant in the NCAA East Regional in 1994. He played at Southern Methodist for one season (1990-1991) before transferring to Maryland. He received his bachelor's degree in kinesiology from Maryland in 1994 and is currently pursuing his master's in business administration.

"I'm very excited to get started on our second traditionally spring season," Rodenhaver said. "Based on the fall results, our program is headed in the right direction. We have improved almost 18 shots per round over last year's stroke average. This can be attributed to our freshman class and the overall improvement of our returning players. With our continued hard work on the course, in the classroom and in the weight room, I am looking forward to another successful spring season.

"I want each of my players to improve themselves in every facet of their lives. We have set high standards for our players both in the classroom and on the golf course. With our returning players and our incoming freshman class we have been able to show continued improvement throughout the entire program.

"I truly believe that we are moving in the right direction and are committed to winning both on off the course," said Rodenhaver. "I want all of our student-athletes to excel both academically and athletically. I want them to be eager to work hard and be the best they can be every day and in every aspect of their lives."

Rodenhaver is a native of Odessa, Texas. Most of his family, including his wife Robyn, are graduates of University of Maryland. His father is a member of the National Golf Coach's Hall of Fame and a former assistant golf coach at Maryland.

"Strive for clarity, but accept and understand ambiguity."

That phrase captures one way in which an educated person approaches the world and its challenges. Students who graduate from the University of Maryland have been exposed to the tools that allow them to put that perspective to work. Imparting such a perspective may be an ambitious project for undergraduate education, but to aim for anything less would be unworthy of a great university's goals for its students. Twelve years ago, Promises to Keep, a plan for undergraduate education at Maryland, articulated those goals so eloquently we repeat them here.

Undergraduate education at Maryland "aims to provide students with a sense of identity and purpose, a concern for others, a sense of responsibility for the quality of life around them, a continuing eagerness for knowledge and understanding, and a foundation for a lifetime of personal enrichment."

As we learn with and from one another, we try to "develop human values," "celebrate tolerance and fairness," "contribute to the social conscience," "monitor and assess private and collective assumptions," and "recognize the glory, tragedy and humor of the human condition." Your years at the University of Maryland can provide you with all the tools you need to accomplish these goals. Students here are "educated to be able to read with perception and pleasure, write and speak with clarity and verve, handle numbers and computation proficiently, reason mathematically, generate clear questions and find probable arguments, reach substantiated conclusions, and accept ambiguity."

And we also hope you enjoy the journey.

University of Maryland

The Campus

The University of Maryland, College Park, is the most comprehensive institution of higher education, research and service in the state. The university offers 100 undergraduate majors, 88 master's programs and 69 doctoral programs in 13 colleges and schools.

The university is one of only 30 public research universities that are members of the prestigious 58-member Association of American Universities. It is classified as a Research-I university by the Carnegie Foundation by virtue of the range of its baccalaureate programs, the amount of federal support received and the number of doctoral degrees awarded each year, sharing that honor with the top research universities in the country.

Among the public universities in the Association of American Universities, Maryland ranks among the top in percentage of African-American undergraduate students. In addition, the university has the largest number of African-Americans and other minority members among its peers.

Flagship Status

In 1988, the University of Maryland, College Park, was designated as the flagship institution for the University System of Maryland. As well as pursuing a serious research mission and continuing its high level of service to the state, the university rededicated itself to providing the highest quality graduate and undergraduate education. Increased undergraduate opportunities for research and individual study; the development of the College Park Scholars Program and the expansion of the University Honors Program; the genesis of Honors Humanities and Gemstone; the creation of CORE, the general education program; and the establishment of the Center for Teaching Excellence all affirmed the legislature's designation of flagship.

Libraries

Seven libraries make up the University of Maryland library system: McKeldin (main) Library, Architecture Library, Art Library, Engineering and Physical Sciences Library, Hornbake Library, Performing Arts Library, White Memorial (Chemistry) Library.

These libraries constitute the largest university research library institution in the Washington metropolitan area, providing vital resources to researchers, visiting scholars, and businesses throughout the region. The libraries' holdings include more than 2.5 million volumes, 24,000 subscriptions to periodicals and nearly 5 million items available in microfilm format.

Research

Opportunities for conducting research abound at the University of Maryland, College Park, and in the surrounding area, both for faculty to advance their own expertise and bring their insights into the classroom, and for students to begin their exploration of their special interests with practical experience. On campus, special facilities and a number of organized research centers, bureaus, and institutes promote the acquisition and analysis of new knowledge in the arts, sciences and applied fields.

The university's enviable location — just nine miles from downtown Washington, D.C., and approximately 30 miles from both Baltimore and Annapolis — enhances the research of its faculty and students by providing access to some of the finest libraries and research centers in the country.

Service

Programs of public service are central to the overall mission of the university. The philosophy is reflected in the wide array of programs and initiatives that benefit the state's business, agriculture and education communities.

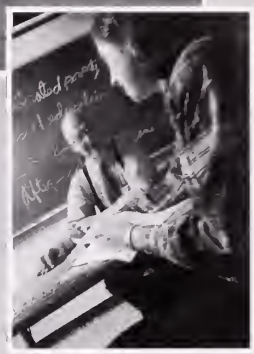
With more than 90 high technology firms in the three-county area of Montgomery, Prince George's and Frederick counties, the university has found abundant opportunity to extend its business and technology outreach programs to the region. Many of these programs are part of the Engineering Research Center, which operates the Technology Advancement Program and the Maryland Industrial Partnerships, programs designed to provide Maryland entrepreneurs and small businesses with research facilities, technical assistance, administrative support, and access to technology that will advance their economic base.

The Institute for Systems Research has formed partnerships with major corporations, including Lockheed Martin, Westinghouse, BF Goodrich, Hughes Aircraft and Dupont to apply advanced systems research to solving industry problems in the fields of communications, manufacturing, controls and robotics.

The University of Maryland features a diversity of cultural and recreational activities. Four art galleries, more than 200 annual musical performances and countless dance and theater productions, expose audiences to the broadest range of programs in the arts. And intercollegiate, club and intramural sports provide students of all levels an opportunity to participate as spectators or athletes.

A Wired World

Students at the University of Maryland are part of an academic community that enjoys free access to networked computer resources and facilities that are among the best in the country. Free computer accounts enable users to store class work on a networked server, download classroom support materials and other electronic information from campus networked resources.



President C.D. Mote, Jr.

C.D. (Dan) Mote Jr. took office as president in September 1998 with a clear vision for taking the University of Maryland down the home stretch to its destiny as one of America's great research universities.

Mote came to Maryland from the University of California at Berkeley, where he had earned all of his degrees, and where he had served in faculty and administration more than 30 years. He had most recently been vice chancellor for university relations.

In Maryland, he found a university already well on its way to achieving the greatness envisioned when the General Assembly declared it the flagship institution of the University System of Maryland. Mote immediately took a leadership role on the Governor's Task Force on Governance, Coordination and Funding of the University System of Maryland to gain greater autonomy and flexibility for the university to pursue its goals. He followed that by working closely with state leaders to boost university funding for new programs, scholarships and faculty, gaining 10 percent appropriations increases in each of his first two years.

Mote spelled out in his inauguration address his vision of Maryland as a great research university, where teaching and research are "inseparable." In this plan, the faculty creates a culture of excellence that permeates the university, student success is the center of all activity, and the extended Maryland family of alumni and friends grows rich in pride and tradition.

High achievement has been Dan Mote's life, from his student days at the University of California through his years as an outstanding teacher and world-renowned researcher and his leadership of a highly successful capital campaign at Berkeley.

By the end of Mote's second year at Maryland, the university's ongoing capital campaign, BoldVision • Bright Future, had raised nearly $300 million of a $350 million goal, including such landmark donations as Clarice Smith's $15 million for the Clarice Smith Performing Arts Center and Comcast Corporation's $25 million for the Comcast Center. But Mote has said repeatedly that development and capital campaigns are not principally about raising money.

"They are about the university building relationships, with its alumni and friends of the university through the quality people and quality programs on campus. If we succeed in building authentic relationships, fund-raising happens as easily as the women's lacrosse team scores a goal."

Mote and his wife Patsy live in the President's Residence on the College Park campus. They have two grown children and four grandchildren.

Athletic Director Deborah A. Yow

Dr. Deborah A. Yow is in the seventh year of her outstanding tenure as director of athletics at the University of Maryland ... a year in which she also has assumed the presidency of the National Association of Collegiate Directors of Athletics, an organization with a membership of more than 6,100 athletic administrators representing 1,600 colleges and universities in North America and Mexico.

The comprehensive success of Terrapin athletics under Debbie Yow's leadership is a clear and compelling testimony to her values of excellence, teamwork and accountability. Likewise, her election to the presidency of NACDA is an indication of the respect with which Dr. Yow is regarded in intercollegiate athletics and education in the U.S. and Canada.

In October 2000, Yow was named Female Sports Executive of the Year by the editors of Street & Smith's SportsBusiness Journal.

Also as a member of the NCAA Management Council and NCAA Division I Budget Committee, Yow presents a strong voice for excellence and integrity at the highest levels of intercollegiate athletics. In these national roles she has represented the University of Maryland and the Atlantic Coast Conference with a balanced and proactive voice.

Since taking over at Maryland in 1994, she and her staff have:

- Transformed Terrapin athletics into a responsive, goal-oriented organization.
- Balanced all six of the nearly $30 million annual budgets (the first balanced budgets for the Terrapins in 10 years prior to her arrival).
- Greatly enhanced the academic support services provided to student-athletes, with an enviable exhausted eligibility graduation rate of nearly 90 percent during her tenure.
- Led the Terrapins to a national all-sports ranking in the upper 15 percent of all NCAA Division I institutions.
- Reorganized and upgraded marketing and fund-raising efforts on behalf of Terrapin athletics. As a result, private gifts to athletics have increased 135% and corporate sponsorship revenues have increased by 270% during her tenure at Maryland.
- Implemented a strategic management model.
- Paid off approximately $7 million in operating debt accrued before her arrival in 1994.
- Developed a comprehensive Internet strategy with management, marketing and fundraising applications.
- Significantly improved customer care in every area.

Maryland athletic director Deborah A. Yow took over as president of the National Association of Collegiate Directors of Athletics in July 2000.

The Maryland Department of Athletics has made remarkable progress under Yow's leadership. Regarding the many achievements of Terrapin athletics over the past six years, Dr. Yow says, "We are pleased, but we are not satisfied ... our vision is to be one of the top 10 programs in the nation consistently ... we see no reason to settle for less."

Yow is known for her goal-oriented and proactive management style. She consistently inspires and challenges those around her to "raise our sights and sharpen our tools ... to work hard and work smart ... to recognize that our only limitations are those that we place upon ourselves." As a manager and leader, she clearly models these principles. In 1999, she was singled out by Street & Smith's SportsBusiness Journal as one of the leading athletic administrators in the U.S.

A former basketball coach, she began her coaching career at the high school level in North Carolina before taking over as head women's coach at the University of Kentucky in 1976. She also achieved an outstanding coaching record as head coach at the University of Florida. She later moved into athletic administration at the University of Florida and the University of North Carolina-Greensboro, followed by a highly successful tenure as A.D. at Saint Louis University.

She has authored numerous articles and books on athletics, management and human behavior, and is a respected leader in intercollegiate athletics in the United States.

Summing up the entire Terrapin athletic program, Yow recently observed, "We have the finest student-athletes, coaches, support staff and administrative team in America. It is because of their courage, hard work and cooperative spirit that we now have a strong, viable athletic program. I am immensely proud of each of them. I am equally proud of our Terrapin fans who buy tickets and our Terrapin Club members who faithfully support the Maryland athletic program with their donations for scholarships, and the Maryland Educational Foundation and M Club members who serve and give liberally. We have a great Terrapin family. That's the foundation for all of our successes ... and the basis for our bright future."

Athletic Admin.

Rob Mullens

Sr. Assoc. A.D./Internal Operations

Rob Mullens, who joined the Terps' staff as assistant athletic director for business in the summer of 1996, is in his second year as senior associate athletic director for internal operations.

Mullens' responsibilities include assisting the athletic director with the overall administration of the department's internal operations in addition to assisting with the operation of football and men's basketball. He also oversees the supervision of 15 sports and is responsible for overseeing the business office, ticket office, facilities and operations, and the computer systems analyst.

As the chief financial officer, Mullens is directly responsible for the department's $30 million annual budget.

Mullens graduated cum laude in 1991 from West Virginia with a degree in business administration. He earned a master's degree in sport management at West Virginia in 1993. In April of 2000, he was named the 2000 Distinguished Alumnus of the West Virginia Sport Management Program.

Prior to his appointment at Maryland, he was senior business manager and the chief budget officer for the University of Miami (Fla.) athletic department (1994-96).

His background in athletics includes serving as an intern for the senior associate director of athletics at Kentucky (1993) and as a graduate assistant to the assistant athletic director for business at West Virginia (1992-93). Prior to pursuing a career in athletics, Mullens worked for the accounting firm Ernst and Young.

He is married to the former Jane Pearson, who is the Terrapins' assistant athletic director for compliance.

Academic Support & Career Dev.

The Department of Intercollegiate Athletics is committed to the academic success and career development of student athletes. In support of this commitment the department sponsors the Academic Support and Career Development Unit (ASCDU).

Mission

The mission of the unit is (1) to provide quality developmental programs and need based services that will enhance the opportunity to earn an undergraduate degree, (2) offer career development opportunities and (3) support the psychosocial growth of student athletes through special initiatives.

Don Peormon

Staff

Nine full-time professionals, two graduate assistants, tutorial support staff and student associates comprise the unit's workforce. Assistant Director Don Pearman serves as the ASCDU liasion with the golf teams.

ASCDU & The University

Primary academic advising is provided by professional advisors assigned to each student athlete by his or her home college, school or department. The ASCDU counselors serve as an important support network that coordinates and implements transitional and developmental programs to address the academic and career development needs of student athletes. In cooperation with the Office of Records and Registration, ASCDU monitors academic progress of student athletes to assure that NCAA, ACC, and University rules and regulations are met.

Location

The primary ASCDU unit is conveniently located on the ground floor of Cole Field House where student athletes have access to various resources and services. Each academic counselor has private office space in order to insure meeting privacy. A study table room is staffed by proctors and arranged to maximize student focus and concentration. The facility also houses a tutorial room devoted to servicing the learning needs of student athletes. The staff maintains two computer resource laboratories with a total of 40 personal computers containing up-to-date software packages. In addition, ASCDU coordinates a laptop computer service that provides each team access to laptop computers while traveling to away competitions.

There is also a satellite computer room in the Gossett Football Team House. Three of the nine ASCDU professionals are currently housed in the building.

The Future

In the summer of 2002, the $124 million Comcast Center will become the new home of the ASCDU unit. A 7,000 square foot wing has been developed to replace the current space in Cole Field House. The new home of ASCDU will be conveniently located on the floor where offices of coaches for 20 sports will also be placed. The close proximity was designed to facilitate communication among ASCDU staff, coaches and student athletes. The satellite computer lab in the Gossett Football Team House will continue to operate. In addition, a building addition of an auditorium which will seat 140 is currently planned for the Gossett Football Team House. That space will be available for use by the entire athletic program, including ASCDU.

Academic courses, programs and services offered by ASCDU include the following:

- Prospective student-athlete orientation
- Academic counseling
- NCAA academic eligibility monitoring
- Academic enrichment and career development presentations and workshops
- Accredited tutorial support
- Mentor program
- EDCP 108-J (Career decision making and planning); EDCP 108-K (College learning strategies and skills); EDCP 108-O (First-year transitions to the university)

University of Maryland Golf Course

An 18-hole semi-private championship golf course located on the north perimeter of the University of Maryland's flagship campus in College Park, the University of Maryland Golf Course is the home of the Terrapins' men's and women's golf teams.

Open year-round, the 6,700-yard championship course features a newly constructed clubhouse which was completed in April 1999. The course has long been the site of numerous state and regional tournaments, and the 35,000-sq. ft., plantation-style clubhouse has become a gathering point for campus and surrounding communities.

The clubhouse upper level features a full-service bar, grill and banquet facility that seats 75 for lunch and tournament events, and can handle groups from eight to 200 including a banquet facility whose outdoor patio overlooks the course. Its main level features management offices, a fully-equipped pro shop with the latest styles of Terrapin golf attire, men's and women's locker facilities, and a Terrapin golf suite with offices, separate locker rooms and a lounge for the Terps' men's and women's teams.

Designed by George Cobb and built in 1955, the course plays 50,000 rounds per year with preference given to students, faculty, staff and alumni. Its semi-private facilities include a 5,000-sq. ft. putting green and a 45-station driving range.
